Thought for the week: The Sacrament of Baptism
Part 5 The Baptism of Jesus
In last week's reflection, we saw how John was sent by God (John 1:6) to prepare Israel for the coming of the Messiah: "Prepare the way of the Lord, make his paths straight" (Matthew 3:3; Isaiah 40:3). Jesus, who was without sin (Hebrews 4:15), received John's baptism of repentance in the Jordan (Matthew 3:11–15). He had no sins to confess; he had come to save the world (John 3:17). Jesus willingly accepted John's baptism "to fulfil all righteousness" (Matthew 3:15), reflecting his solidarity with the sinful people he had come to save (Hebrews 2:17). As Jesus emerged from the Jordan, "the heavens were opened" and Jesus' saw "the Spirit of God descending like a dove and alighting on him" (Matthew 3:16). This recalls Isaiah's promise, "I have put my spirit upon him" (Isaiah 42:1), illuminating Jesus as God's chosen Servant. The Father declared: "This is my Son, the Beloved, with whom I am well pleased" Matthew 3:17), echoing God's address to His anointed king, "You are my son" (Psalm 2:7), and the Servant in whom God delights (Isaiah 42:1). Baptism is received by the Son, the Holy Spirit descends upon Him, and the Father speaks: here the Trinity is revealed. The Spirit descending and remaining was God's foretold sign for John (John 1:33). The promised King, the foretold Servant, the sacrificial Lamb: John proclaims, "Here is the Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world!" (John 1:29).
