Thought for the weekend: God mothers and the church

This weekend we celebrate Mothers. A key attribute for successful motherhood is to be able to love unconditionally. A good mother will repeatedly forgive children their mistakes, realising that such mistakes are an inevitable part of growing up and a part of the learning process. It seems to me that just as truly loving parents are unconditional in the love which they show to their children so God is unconditional in showing a love to each one of us which cannot be merited or earned. It is the responsibility of the church to extend that unconditional love to all of God's children. The church is often referred to as a sanctuary, it is a place of refuge, a place of asylum. A place where those who need a home and have none may find it. Sanctuary is a word which shows the church as a place of open doors and open hearts. Because the church is its people, we are called to show that forgiving nature which we see in the very best of mothers. We are all children of God, and the Mother Church must always seek to embrace all God's children and welcome them with a love which demonstrates the best qualities of our God. Are we able to love unconditionally?

PRAYER FOR THIS WEEKEND: This is a prayer for inspiration and guidance:

This is an adaptation of a beautiful prayer from the Church of Ireland that is especially relevant as we celebrate Mothering Sunday:

Lord Jesus, you know well the blessing an earthly home can bring. Receive our thanks for all the love we have received in our homes, especially from those who have nurtured us from our earliest years. Hear our prayers for mothers everywhere, that they may never lose heart nor ever be taken for granted. May they receive from their children the honour and love you showed to your mother, Mary, even as you were suffering on the Cross. Bless and keep them all, for your love's sake. Amen
